

Sketchy Life OLD NEW YORK by Mr. Intyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The greatest, sublimest, most incomparable three ring tenor in our fair city. He began an engagement at a Broadway vaudeville theater the other day. He is Clooolini from Europe, the well known fighting zone. The first "o" in Clooolini's name is soft, the second one hard and the third about medium. Golden throat- ed tenors have been here before but

WINCHESTER

Model 1912, Light-Weight HAMMERLESS SHOTGUNS

Look Good To Everybody

The Winchester Model 1912 Hammerless Repeating Shotgun has won the enthusiastic approval and endorsement of shooters everywhere. Its light weight, strength, balance, easy-working action, and splendid shooting qualities appeal to men who know a good gun. Its Nickel steel construction means not only a lighter and stronger gun, but a better balanced one, because of the better distribution of weight. This gun loads and unloads easily, has a cross-bolt trigger lock, and a simple take-down system. It is made in 12, 16 and 20 gauges. If in the market for a shotgun, don't fail to examine this, "THE MOST PERFECT REPEATER" in regular Uncle Sam money. While still under the same spell the management issued a statement saying Clooolini was "greater than Carno." That is their story, they added, and they'll stick to it.

The former collections of Henry Siegel, the merchant prince, who used to prince it around New York with limousines, castles on the Hudson and the like, will be sold at auction next month. Siegel was head of the big department store that went down in a financial sky-rocketing stunt and Siegel is occupying a neat but not staid cell in prison.

One of the offerings in the art collection is a life size group of "The Wounded Alaskan." Life size groups of Siegel's own masterpiece "The Injured Depositors" will not be on sale at this particular auction but they may be seen in almost every part of the city.

The young Brummel boys who plaster their hair over their heads imagine that it is one of the new things of a fashionable age. Little do they realize that twenty-five years ago James J. Corbett, the pugilist, was brushing his hair that way.

Corbett was the originator of that particular style of brushing the hair. He did it to keep his hair out of his eyes in the ring and the custom has been growing and growing until every young fellow who wants to look like a Lyondecker collar model does it.

Of course, Corbett's hair didn't lie down wavy like the young men's hair does now—but at the same time it must be remembered that Gibson wasn't drawing it that way at that time either.

Subway workmen believe that accidents go by series. It is an old superstition often fulfilled. When the yawning hole in Fourth avenue was followed by another accident in the heart of Broadway last week, there was no surprise on the part of the men who work under ground. They expected it and they expect others.

From a subway platform at 177th street one may see—if one cares for such things—a sign which reads: John Winter, Summer Garden.

When C. M. Payne, the artist, was living in a small town in Pennsylvania, there was a village character who was known for never spending a cent.

One day he went into the village store and asked the clerk if he could change a dime. The clerk said he could.

"Alright," said the horrible spendthrift, "just give me one nickel and the rest in small change."

An enterprising milk concern in Yonkers advertises "noiseless drivers." It will be a boon to those who sleep on the ground floor.

MURDERED BY A JEALOUS SUITOR

Mrs. May Whitney.

Mrs. May Whitney, piano player, a cafe, was murdered in Chicago a few days ago by Washington Irving Morley, once a leading member of the Kansas City Athletic club, athlete and son of a Kansas City contractor, because she refused longer continue a clandestine love affair. After shooting the woman Morley killed himself.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

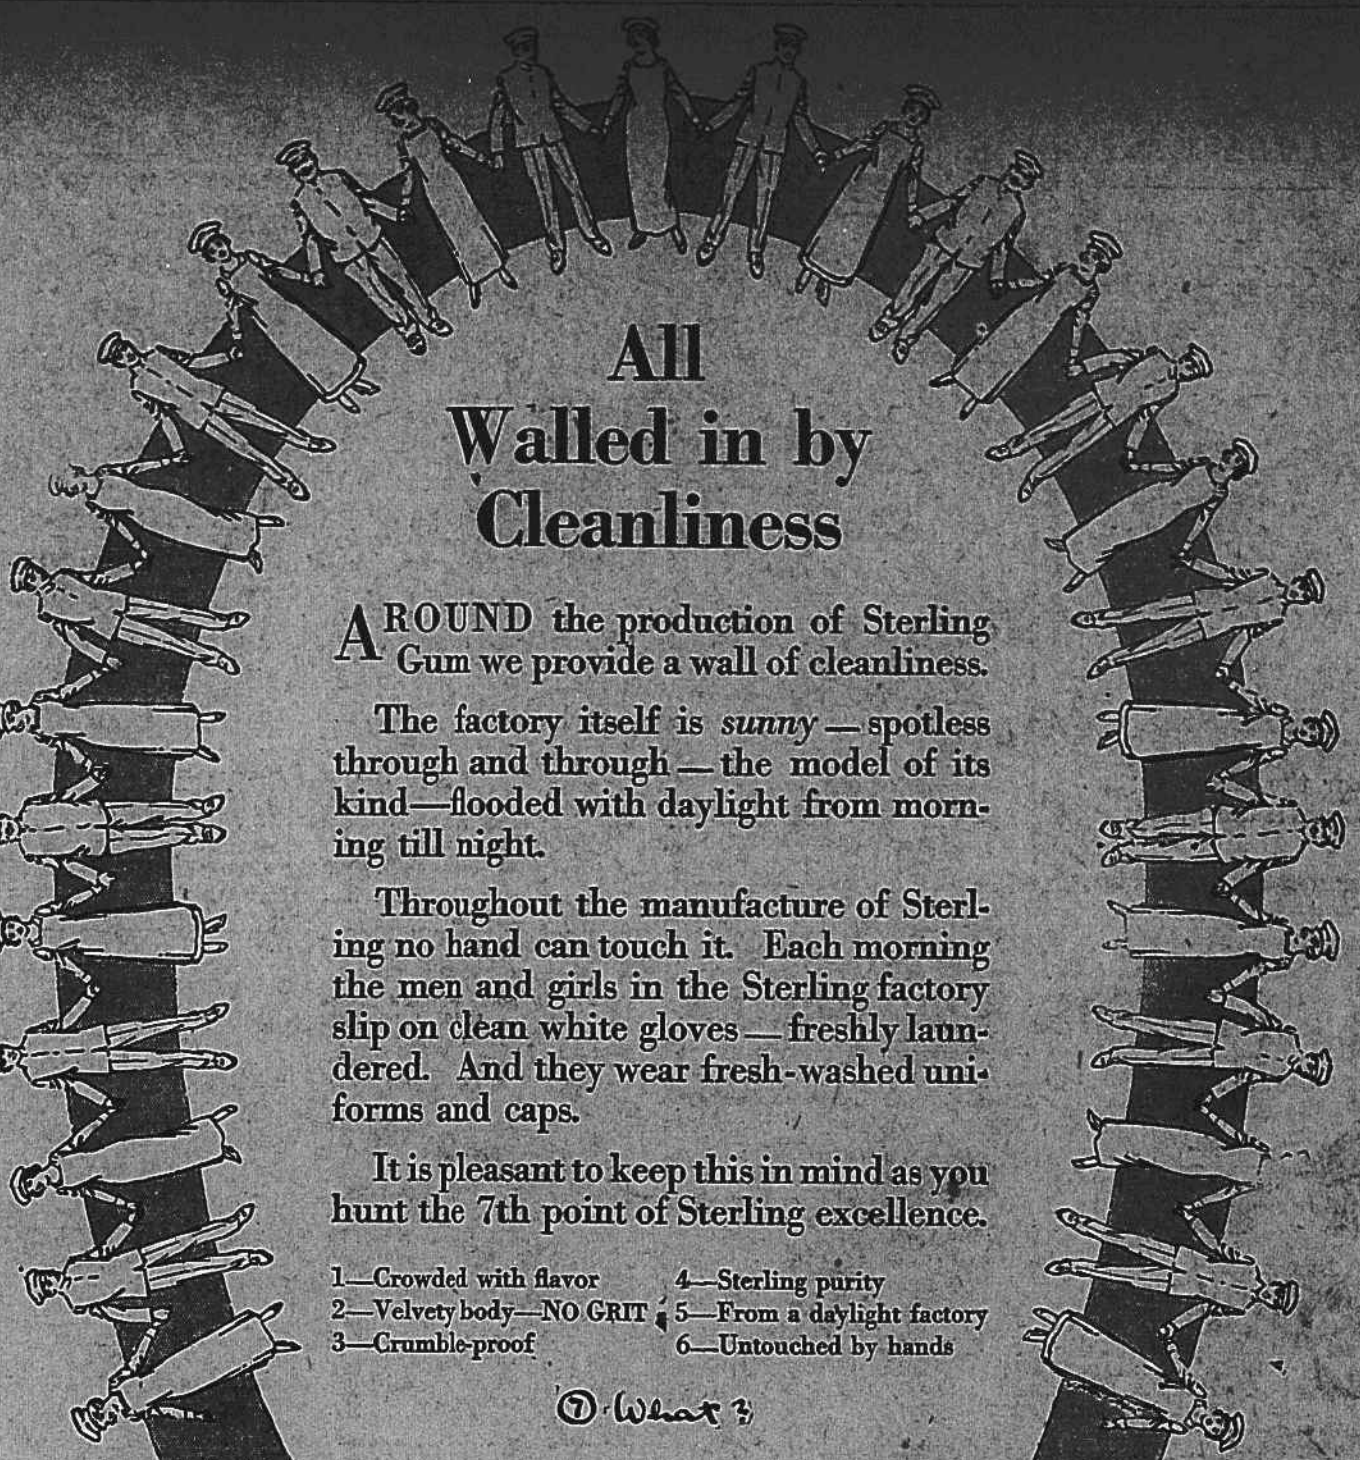

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping in the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bed time. Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. One box and 25c per box. All druggists.

All Walled in by Cleanliness

AROUND the production of Sterling Gum we provide a wall of cleanliness.

The factory itself is sunny—spotless through and through—the model of its kind—flooded with daylight from morning till night.

Throughout the manufacture of Sterling no hand can touch it. Each morning the men and girls in the Sterling factory slip on clean white gloves—freshly laundered. And they wear fresh-washed uniforms and caps.

It is pleasant to keep this in mind as you hunt the 7th point of Sterling excellence.

- 1—Crowded with flavor
- 2—Velvety body—NO GRIT
- 3—Crumble-proof
- 4—Sterling purity
- 5—From a daylight factory
- 6—Untouched by hands

Bride to Be Fails To Appear

Unabashed, Jilted Man Marries Bridesmaid, Who is Very Willing.

WILKES BARRE, Pa., Oct. 6.—Jilted at the altar the other day when his bride failed to appear at the appointed hour, Michael Ziegler, of Larksville, decided to make the best of the situation and forthwith married Mary Nobel, of Ashley, one of the bridesmaids to be at the home of the promised bride's parents near Ashley.

After it was said that Margaret Goblin, the bride to be, had left town on the same train with a young man with whom she was well acquainted.
